THE WORLD OF SOCIETY

President and Mrs. Cleveland at Home to the Public.

A Brilliant Scene at the Southern Relief Charity Ball-Three Pretty Luncheons.

The public reception last night at the White House was one of the most interesting which has taken place there in years It not only brought out an enormously large throng of people, but a particularly well-dressed one, and, excepting more feminine headgear was seen and fewer bare shoulders, there was little to distinguish the reception from those which have preceded it during the winter. The floral and electric light decorations were as profuse as usual, the band played just as gayly and, altogether, the reception was just about as comfortable an affair as has happened at the White House for a king time. Before President and Mrs. Cleveland and the receiving party came down stairs the scene in the blue room began to be quite animated, with the company gathbe quite animated, with the company gathering there who had been asked by Mrs. Cleveland to assist. The senatorial families were represented by Senator and Mrs. Vilas, Senator and Mrs. Blackburn, Miss Blackburn, Senator and Mrs. Blanchard and Senator and Mrs. Gray, the Misses Gray. Others present were Marshal Wilson Representative Outhwrite Mrs. Insenh son, Representative Outhwaite, Mrs. Joseph Washington, Mrs. W. K. Carlisle, Mrs. John M. Wilson, Miss Waller, Mrs. and Miss Thurber, Representative and Mrs. McCreary, Mrs. Stickney of New York, Miss Benedict and Mrs. Perrine. A few minutes after the reception commenced Mrs. Daniel Manning and Miss Fryer, her niece, came in and received the most cor-dial welcome from all. Col. Wilson, as

Cleveland were the cabinet ladies, each of whom seemed unusually animated and par-ticularly well dressed. Mrs. Cleveland wore a picture dress of light flowered bro-cade, with a bodice of pale yellow velvet edged with a fall of lace around the shoulders. Mrs. Gresham was in blue satin, Mrs. Carlisle in one of her most elegant gowns, light gray moire antique and lace; Mrs. Lamont, a superb gown of rose pink satin, the bodice embroidered in silver and the entire effect most becoming; Mrs. Olney, gray satin brocaded in yellow; Miss Her bert, pale green satin with touches of bright red velvet, and Miss Morton in lavender moire antique and point lace. Secretary Gresham, Secretary Carlisle, Secretary Lamont, Postmaster General Bissell, Attorney General Olney, Secretary Herbert, Secretary Smith and Secretary Morton also spent the evening in the blue room, or promenaded around the house with some of the guests. A long line of army officers in full uniform were among the first to pay their respects to the President and Mrs. Cleveland, and afterward scattered around the parlors added a touch of splendor to the scene, which was not only thoroughly appreciated by the host and hostess and the Secretary of War, but also by the citizens of the District and the hundreds of strangers to whom the sight was a great novelty.

The desire of the public to shake hands with the Chief Executive and his wife does not seem to have materially lessened. There were almost as many carriages around the mansion as are usually seen there at evening gatherings, and the line of visitors on foot was as great, if not greater, than on New Year, when so many were disappointed. At quarter past 10 the double line of people extended nearly to 17th street, and constantly received accessions until shortly before 11 when the sions until shortly before 11, when the reception closed. It was a fitting finale to the formal events of the wirter, and appropriately closed a series of receptions which have given pleasure to the President and his wife and the thousands of friends and strangers who have attended them.

HUNTER—TINDLE. On February 6, 1895, at St. Peter's Church. Washington. D. C. Rev.

Mrs. Joseph E. Washington gave a luncheon yesterday, when her guests were Mrs. Tracey, Mrs. Westinghouse, Mrs. Sanger, Mrs. Kimball, Mrs. Tom L. Johnson, Mrs. Witmer, Mrs. Gillett, Mrs. Henderson, Miss Mildred Lee and Miss Seawell.

Mrs. Schofield gave a luncheon yesterday in honor of Mrs. Andrews, who has been making her a visit, and who will return to New York today. The guests were Mrs. Wilcox, Mrs. Winthrop, Mrs. Heger, Mrs. Micox, Mrs. Winthrop, Mrs. Heger, Mrs. Heintzelman, Mrs. Ennis, Mrs. Thurber, Mrs. Frye, Mrs. Cropper, Mrs. Bloomer and Miss Harris. The table was very pret-tily decorated with carnations and violets. Mrs. Edward Gray gave a tea yesterday to meet Mrs. Emma Eames Story. A large company was present.

Mrs. Sartoris gave a dinner last night. No event of the season has surpassed in brilliancy or enthusiasm the second annual charity ball given by the ladies of the Southern Relief Society last night at Na-tional Rifles' Armory Hall for the benefit of the poor and needy ex-confederates and All Washington appeared to have turned out to grace the occasion, for every nook and corner of the spacious building was crowded and overflowing. The decorations of the hall were lavish in palms, flowers and tropical plants. Among the ladies pretty toilets were the order.

The elegant repast furnished contributed largely to the occasion, and proved a satis-factory feature to both guests and man-From 9 o'clock, when "Dixie" was greeted with applause, and called the merry dancers to the floor, until 2, when an oldfashioned Virginia reel closed the scene, in-terest never flagged, and the great throngs coming and going seemed never to change in proportions or enjoyment. The hostesses of the occasion were Mrs. Harry Heth, president of the society; Mrs. Carlisle, Miss Herbert, Mrs. McAdoo, Mrs. Crisp, Mrs. Butler, Mrs. Blackburn, Mrs. Call, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Draper, Mrs. Bate. Mrs. Joseph Washington, Mrs. Blanchard, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Hemphill, Mrs. Tom Johnson, Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. Howry, Miss Emily Mason, Mrs. Gen. Payne, Mrs. Zane, Mrs. Luke Blackburn, Mrs. Marcus J. Wright, Mrs. R. K. Stone, Mrs. Lames, Lyons, Mrs. H. Clar Smith Mrs. James Lyons, Mrs. H. Clay Smith (vice president), and Mrs. J. T. Callaghan (chairman).

Mr. Magnus S. Thompson was the general manager of the ball, and Mrs. D. C. Harrison and Dr. Duff G. Lewis were in A daffodil luncheon given by Mrs. E. B. Wight was one of the social features of Wednesday. The guests were Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Rudolph Kauffmann, Mrs. Wm. E. Curtis, Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. Kohlsaat, Miss Isabel Sedgley, Miss Reed and Mrs. Leupp. Mrs. Alex. Legare gave a luncheon today. Mrs. Cropper gave a tea yesterday afternoon at her home on M street to the Dis-trict of Columbia colonial dames. Many colonial dames from other states who are new in the city were also present. Mrs Walker read extracts from a most interest ing paper, now in the possession of her family in Boston, it being an account of Braddock's defeat, in Washington's handwriting.

-Mrs. and the Misses Johnson, 1263 New flampshire avenue, will be at home tomorrow for the last time this season. Mrs. Heaven and her daughters will not eceive tomorrow, as they are preparing

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cocker was the scene of a pleasant gathering last evening, the occasion being a dance given by Miss Nora Cocker to her young friends. About midnight supper was served in the dining room, which was beautifully decorated with palms. Among those present were the Misses Ida and Edna Carleton, Marie Stuart, Bella A. Allen, Ama Harding, Margaret O'Hagan, Eleanor Canty, Edna Benson, Helen Dyer and Sadie Sefton, and the Messrs. W. B. Bagnam, Will Montague, E. D. Stuart, J. D. How-ard, A. Phillip Long, W. G. McCormick, J. E. Howard, Williney, C. A. Walsh, Chus. A. Clark and Edgar Sterm.

The Excelsior Club was entertained on Tuesday at the residence of Mrs. Murray, on Madison place. During the afternoon the members listened to a number of recitations by Mrs. and Miss Stevenson; an es say on James Russell Lowell, by Mrs. Fris-ble; vocal solos, by Miss Stevenson; plano recital, by Mrs. Jacobson; reading, by Mrs. Edson; a recitation, "Robinson Crusoe," by Miss Florence Murray, daughter of the hostess, and a paper on Bayard Taylor, by Mrs. Jacobson. This club is arranging for a luncheon to be given March 26. The next meeting will be held at the residence of Mrs. Phelps, 9 Tennessee avenue northeast, and the monthly entertainment on Wednesday evening, February 27, at the residence of its ex-president, Mrs. Chambers, 1005 D street northeast street northeast.

Mrs. R. Bowman Matthews will not re ceive tomorrow.

Mrs. Lamont, Miss Herbert, Mrs. Schofield, Mrs. Ramsay, Mrs. Woodward and Mrs. Lemly will receive the guests tonight at the reception of the Army and Navy Mrs. and Miss Gallaudet of Kendall

Green will not receive tomorrow afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Moulton announce the marriage of their daughter, Nellie Vinton Moulton, to Mr. Charles Waterbury Smith, to take place Wednesday, March 6. Owing to the recent death of the groom-elect's mother, the ceremony will be private.

The Duke of Arcos, Spanish minister to Mexico, and Mr. Woodbury Lowery left yesterday for the City of Mexico. Mrs. Frank P. Hastings of the Hawallan legation is convalescing from a long and severe spell of illness, and hopes soon to be able to resume her social duties. A pleasant surprise party was given to Mr. P. H. Adams last night at his residence, 1105 6th street southwest, in honor of his thirty-ninth birthday. Those presof his thirty-ninth birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Streeks, Mr. and Mrs. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McCauley, Mrs. E. Rider, Mrs. Wm. Price and Misses R. Davis, A. Deatley E. Death of Col. Alexander. The death of Col. George W. Alexander, Wednesday, in Laurel, Md, closed a career of remarkable adventure and interest. He was a native of Pennsylvania, sixty-six years old. Before the war he commanded a filibustering expedition to capture a guano island in the West Indies. He enlisted a company of zouaves in Baltimore for the confederate service, and later carried out a bold plan to capture three vessels in the Chesapeake laden with $400,000 worth of merchandise; they were captured and taken up the Rappahannock to Fredericksburg. He was for a time shut up in Fort McHenry. His wife brought him a life preserver and a rope under her crino-line and he made a most desperate and successful escape. A reward of $10,000 was offered for his recapture, but he got away. For many years after the war he resided in Baltimore, employed as sanitary engineer. After he became physically in-capable of business he resided in Laurel, Md., where he died.

The Attorney's Opinion Asked.

A doubt existing in the mind of Assessor Trimble as to his authority for collecting license fees from fish hucksters, he has requested the Commissioners to refer the following question to the attorney for the District: "Are persons buying and selling fish from wagons or carts—that is, vending them from place to place-required to ob-tain a license from the District, or produce dealers trading at large?
